POLITICAL PARTIES WELCOME JOHN BOOI INTO POLITICS

ORANJESTAD — Following a farewell party for the retiring Island Government Secretary, Mr. John Booi, the political leaders of the island unanimously welcomed him into the political arena. MEP leader Betico Croes said in his welcome speech that the experience that Mr. Booi accumulated during his years in the Executive Council and in Parliament will contribute to elevate the level of politics in Aruba. He wished Mr. Booi much success in his political career. Mr. Henny Eman, leader of the AVP party welcomed Mr. Booi into the political arena and said that many people enter into politics because they reach a certain position from which they cannot advance any further. In Mr. Booi's case it is just the opposite, said Mr. Eman. Mr. Booi reached the highest level in government and now that he has reached to the highest point he has entered into politics, which means that his conscience has told him that he must dedicate his accumulated experience to the welfare of the Aruban public, said Mr. Eman. PPA leader Benny Nisbet also expressed warm words of welcome to Mr. Booi. The words and thoughts expressed by PPA recently will find contents during the coming period of confrontation. A period in which Aruba will become a "country" in the Kingdom of the Netherlands Antilles. PPA referred to

IT IS NECESSARY TO TAKE MEASURES IN ST. MAARTEN

RUPERT MAYNARD

ORANJESTAD — According to the Dutch daily, Amigoe, Rupert Maynard, the former deputy of finance of St. Maarten said in a telephone interview with that newspaper that everyone has to make sacrifices to combat the economic crisis. Mr. Maynard is of the opinion that for the time being no permits to establish businesses should be given in St. Maarten. Presently there are too many of the same type of establishments and they are threatening the survival of each other! According to Mr. Maynard, the present economic crisis is caused by the multi-nationals having too much of a free hand. Now they want to cooperate after they have earned millions by the sweat and blood of the people. He said that the tax-free system must be abolished and a "soft tax" for investors should be introduced. Mr. Maynard said that he does not believe that the economic situation of St. Maarten is not as healthy as it appears to be, and that austerity measures must be taken in St. Maarten, even if they are not as drastic as in Curacao and Aruba.

ORANJESTAD -- Mr. Celsio Emers, karate instructor of the San Nicolas Sports Center left for Texas to attend an advanced course in karate. "Texas Tea Kwondo & Karate Federation" of Denton, Texas, will hold the six week course. Mr. Emers was seen off at the airport by IDEFRE director Mr. Roy van Putten and Mr. Bill Buckley.

The Local
EDITOR'S CORNER

IN BAD TASTE

Once upon a time, Seroe Colorado, formerly known as Lago Colony, was like "hallowed ground". That area southeast of the Lago refinery was inhabited by Lago foreign staff employees, the majority of them, Americans, and a few Europeans. In the early days of Lago it was prohibited for people from other parts of the island to enter the Lago Colony unless they worked there, and there was no social contact between the people of that area and the other people of the island.

But as the years went by there was a gradual relaxation in the discriminating attitude of the Americans, and people from 'outside' were allowed to visit Seroe Colorado and to even become members of the Esso Club.

Some years ago when local employees attained certain managerial positions they went to live in Seroe Colorado, and many of the foreign staff employees were either laid off or went on retirement. In the meantime the Esso Club was taken over, and now is entirely run by locals.

With the departure of the Lago refinery many people hoped that the area surrounding the Esso Club would be use das an ideal spot to introduce that part of the island to the people of Aruba and at the same time make it tourist attraction of San Nicolas.

However, those hopes were smashed to pieces when the Board of the Esso Club announced recently that gate 6 will be closed to the public and that only members of the Esso Club who have their membership card in their possession will be allowed to enter. The prohibition does not only include the premises of the Esso Club, but also the Rogert and Baby beaches, where many fishermen and the owners of pleasure boats use.

The announcement was met with consternation by the people of Aruba in general and of San Nicolas in particular. Several San Nicolas merchants expressed their dissatisfaction about the matter. They claim that they often suggest to tourists that they visit Seroe Colorado and some of the scenic spots on that part of the island. In fact Mr. Charlie Brouns Jr., an energetic promotor of San Nicolas, has even printed a folder with a map depicting the area, which he distributes to tourists to encourage them to visit the Esso Club area and other attractive parts of eastern San Nicolas.

Of course it is the right of the Board of the Esso Club to protect its property, but we don't think that that property includes the whole of Seroe Colorado to which gate 6 gives access.

At a time when the utmost efforts are being utilised to promote tourism as the main source of income for Aruba we think that such a measure by the Esso Club Board is in bad taste. It is hoped that the matter be re-considered and that a more satisfactory solution be found for this disgusting problem.

BOMB SCARE

ORANJESTAD -The Queen Beatrix International was scene of utter confusion Thursday afternoon due to a number of unidentified telephone calls claiming that some terrible would happen to a KLM 747 plane which was ready to take off for Holland. At the last moment the passengers were asked to disembark and their luggage was thoroughly searched. Although the caller did not specify what was going to happen, it was generally belived that a bomb was aboard the plane. The airport was closed for 6 hours, causing many flights to be re-routed to Curacao and Venezuela. The search did not produce any results and the plane left later in the night.

"THOUGHT FOR ALL TIME"

And now civilization approaches its end. Through the centuries human projects have repeatedly failed. Human hopes have proved phantoms; human promises have turned out to be falsehoods. All that wisdom, genius, education, culture, civilization, and philanthropy have accomplished still leaves the whole sick and the whole heart faint; and ten thousand panaceas of men have brought no relief. Men rebelled against God and broke his law. When wisdom is dressed in empty phrases and words are used without containing things of worth, the words cannot any more help the wisdom in themselves, the wisdom escapes.

But the words "The Word is One", are valuable to join the common fate of empty phrases. They are not a mere catchword, they are burning appeal born and brought to the world in a vision.....

It is unnecessary to point out why the idea of the world as an indivisible unit has become more overwhelmingly inseparable in our epoch than ever before in history. We are all living on the same globe, and that globe gradually has become rather confined to serve as a globe for the expansion of man.

And even if we manage to subdue outer space it will probably be not of any help. The time has passed forever when a district, a village, a part of the country, an empire, could live undisturbed by what is going on in other parts of the world.

All countries have become our neighborhood. (It is even a question if they will be satisfied with being our neighbors!).

ALM SIGNS CHARTER CONTRACT

WILLEMSTAD — On July 8 ALM signed a contract with tour operator Thomas Wainwright for a charter program from Baltimore and Philadelphia to Curacao and Aruba.

It is for a contract of 14 months, starting in December this year which states that ALM will fly on weekend directly from Baltimore and Philadelphia to Aruba and Curacao with a capacity of 138 seats on each flight.

According to the itinerary an ALM DC-9 Super 80 will fly between Baltimore and Philadelphia to Aruba one day and the next day from the same two cities to Curacao, enabling the tour operator to sell package tours to both Aruba and Curacao with direct flights to both islands.

Bonaire is also included in the Wainwright package and ALM has provided for a good connection for the tourists who visit Bonaire. Wainwright is a wellknown tour operator throughout the U.S. and ALM has been working satisfactorily with him for some years.

Wainwright said when signing the contract that he does not doubt that after 14 months both parties will be satisfied and interested in working with each other to continue bringing tourists from the United States to these islands.

CANDID COMMENTS

At present there is an anti-crime campaign going on which was as far as Aruba is concerned has totally overlooked a suspected new form of activity called "Lago fairy tales telling".

For sixty years we have come to accept Lago as an inseparable part of Aruba. The announced and actual shutdown was a real shock to all of us. Many people in Aruba still bear a remote (false?) hope that Lago's shutdown is temporary and that operation will resume again some time in the near future. Because of this, a formal part of dismantling work at the refinery would have a tremendous negative psychological impact on a significant portion of Aruba's population. Obviously this could be harmful or even fatal to the governing part in an election year.

So all kinds of fabulous tales are being invented about potential buyers, like Pot, who in the process even got away with a paid vacation in "sunny Aruba", and other phantom wealthy oil sheiks.

These tales are being used to bridge the time gap to election time, to justify dubious singing and swinging trips abroad and to keep alive false hopes of Lago's reopening, all for mere political benefits to those in power now.

Dismantling of the refinery would immediately create a couple of hundred jobs for a number of years while also providing for a much-needed influx of foreign exchange. Massive unemployment tends to depress wage levels. The more unemployment, the more straining on wages. A logical consequence of this is that the longer Lago's dismantling is postponed, the cheaper it becomes.

So here we are facing a situation where our government is suspected to be promoting unemployment, financially favoring the world's largest multinational, shortcutting our economy of much-needed foreign exchange, all this for political gains.

The real truth may never become fully known, but should the above suspicions prove to be (even partially) true, then we can conclude that our island government is engaged in criminal activity of the worst kind!!!

Worst of all, the above is taking place with the (silent) consent of government executives who know or can at least be expected to know better!

HOW CAN I BE SURE OF BIBLICAL CREATION?

Last week we demonstrated that the Bible is the revealed Word of God and science reveals the Work of God. As J. Edwin Orr says, "The conflict is in what people say science says and what people say the Bible says."

For many people today, even Bible Christians, they are not sure as to what the Bible says about creation and science. For one thing, they have been taught evolution completely in school along with the Humanist approach to everything. Another thing is that most churches do not teach special creation, but theistic evolution or evolution itself. Thus most people do not know what to do to find the facts.

I would like to give you some suggestions in your quest for solid information. (This is especially good for those parents who desire to teach their children special creation over against evolution). First of all, get the facts straight from the Bible by studying it and finding out exactly what it teaches in regard to creation. The first thing to do is accept the statements in the Bible as actual fact and not a "creation epic" or "myth" to explain what actually happened. Remember, we mentioned that theories cannot be prove, only facts. I would bring to mind a statement from last week that helps us right here. "Whether a person is a Christian or an atheist, he begins with FAITH. The Christian begins with faith in God. The evolutionist begins with FAITH in a theory. Facts are incontrovertible while theories are the extension of facts into an area of probability or possibility. Facts can be proven --theories cannot. I believe the facts of science parallel the texts of Scripture. Both can be proven and are in agreement with each other. Human interpretations of the Bible like the theories of science can neither be proven, nor disproven, so the question that must be faced is this: Do the facts of science (not theories) square with the texts of Scripture? I believe they do." (Dr. Harold J. Sala in Guidelines For Living, no. Christmas 5 quoted in the Local). Therefore, realize that the Genesis account of creation is a factual account of the beginning of the universe or creation. We cannot claim ignorance when it comes to our failure to understand what God has said. We have many good helps available today to give us the meaning of the words and the explanation of the verses involved in the creation story. What it takes is patience and study, which most of us do not have or want to do in our age of hurry, and taking the easy way out.

One other thing for us to accept early on is that God, only one God and not the god of science, revealed His Word in Scriptures and His Work in science. Parents, do not give your child the option of an either/or situation in regard to thinking that as Christians they cannot believe in science or visa versa. Take advantage of pointing out that outstanding men of science believe in God, for example, Werner Von Braun, the astronauts who had a lot to say about God's power in creation, and men such as Dr. Henry Morris of the Creation Research Institute. The writings of these men can help build up our faith in the biblical account of creation, e REVEALED WORK OF GOD.

Good books that do not apologize for the biblical account of creation will help you. A number of good books can be found in the local Christian Bookstores (Libreria Victoria in Aruba) and I can give some other sources of creationism literature, if you write to me at the address given at the end of the article.

We are living in the twentieth century. Therefore, we cannot put our heads in the sand and expect the matter to go away. We have to face up to the facts of science and the principles of Scripture that can make use wise unto salvation and also serve as a guide in the affairs of life as well. Dear Reader, we need to face up to the facts and stand for the truth. Again, the conflict is what people say science says and what people say the Bible says.

In conclusion, we like to quote the Psalmist, when he says, "The heavens declare the Glory of God: and the firmament showeth His handwork Day unto day uttereth speech and night unto night showeth knowledge....." (Psalm 19:1, 2). Again he says, "The fool hath said in his heart, "There is no God.' They are corrupt, they have done abominable works; there is none that doeth good. Jehovah looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that did understand, that did seek after God...." (Psalm 14:1, 2)

Lion Down on the Job

To us as Christians, however, there exists a unity of a far more genuine and hopeful nature than the rough fact that history, technology and casual circumstances have limited our globe to a little island where nobody else can fall down with out pushing into somebody else who also falls down, and in this way causes a push which makes us all falldown. There also exists a fellowship which concerns our hearts. We are strangers, yet we care for each other. "For one is your Master even Christ, and ye all are brethren". "And hath made of one blood all nations of man for all to dwell on the face of the earth". The unity of the human race as it is given to us by the will of our creator is a basic truth, which not only Christians acknowledge. Even in the anti-religious ideology of modern communism this idea is a basic, even if it is distorted and misrepresented in many ways. By different peoples, nations and races, we are all created to be one, to be willing to help each other. The interests of other peoples are as essential as my own, and their fortune and progress is as legitimate as my own happiness. It is not possible any more to make a sharp distinction between his and mine; they both mean the same to me. This sounds promising. Still I presume that some of my readers will nto fell quite content.....They guess that I am going to conclude with. If we just work hard enough to practice the four absolutes, everything will be cleared up. Some people will say. the human being is not so uncomplicated. Others will prefer to express this in theological terms. Do not forget to take into account the evil nature of man. So, instead, I am going to continue like this: Though that be true Christianity has a remedy at hand, a medication few are aware of. I am thinking of the doctrine of original sin. I do not want to think about the misunderstandings and distortions this doctrine has suffered. I just want to emphasize its main future: the fact is, the world is one; it consists of people like you; but don't let this excite you: before you have seen the connection between the world's deceit and your own wickedness and deceit. What is making the world complicated and difficult is not foreign and unrecognizable forces, it is the forces you can find in yourself. (All great and small sinners in the world are your brothers, because you are one of them.) We are all of the same quality, even if we can separate great scoundrels from small delinquents. I was very impressed when I heard and read in a newspaper from Secretary General making his speech at the

Beat Stress by Changing How You Think of Yourself

You can cut down on the stress in your life simply by learning to think about yourself in more positive ways, a psychologist declares.

It's not so much what happens to you, but what you mentally say to yourself about what's happening that determines how much stress you have, said Dr. Herbert Hoffman, director of New York's Hillside Psychological Guidance Center.

Here are his tips:

- Build yourself up instead of tearing yourself down.

When plans go wrong, stop thinking, "I'm a loser." That just increases stress on you. Instead, restore your self-confidence by giving yourself credit for trying, said Dr. Hoffman, former associate professor of education and psychology at City University of New York.

Think, "I've learned something valuable from this experience" or "I've done my best and that's good enough."

● Stop "awfulizing" — don't think everything that goes wrong is a major catastrophe.

Exaggerated responses to minor problems, such as having a flat tire, increase stress. Minimize setbacks. Think, "No big deal" or "It could be worse."

● Try to avoid self-blaming thoughts.

If you frequently think, "It's all my fault," you're setting yourself up for stressful guilt. Instead, be self-forgiving — think: "What's done is done."

● Think yourself out of time binds.

Mentally saying to yourself, "There's not enough time" when faced with a deadline leads to frustration and stress. Set a more relaxed mental schedule by thinking, "No sense rushing and killing myself."

● Think about a better — not a worse — future.

There is nothing more stressful than hopelessness. When you think, "Things will never improve," it leads to despair and depression. Instead, think, "Tomorrow will be better."

Christian World Council many years gone by, he finished his speech with words from St. Paul: "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God". From these words we get one thing clearly, that nobody has a right to be - or to set himself above the other. We learn we have nothing, and that we all are hoping for God's mercy.

It stands like a paradox, but just this acknowledgement of deepest hopelessness entails the greatest hope. Man is a sinner and has disengaged himself from his Father and from his brothers. But just this is our betrayal of the fellowship of man, is what we all have in common. Just when we deny our being together, we are together. "We first consult our private ends", this is a phrase which disintegrates. It is easy to notice how other people "consult their private ends", and then to despise them. However, when experience our own unveiling and we are compared to the others a strange thing happens. That binds us together, knowing our neighbors. Then a strong feeling of solidarity with all sincerity comes into existence. His fate is mine and my fate is his.

The world is one. Because of his geographical situation, which has thrown all of us into the same melting pot without asking us if we wanted to. And next, the world is one because of the Creator's plan in giving us a need to become parts of a solidarity of hearts. Eventually, the world is one world owing to the fact that we all are guilty of one great sin, namely that we do not really want to stay together. How can a solution be found?

Hardly through prescription and programs. It must come through vision.

The man of vision can develop in one of these three directions: That of hopeless dreamer without an adequate realistic mind to react upon the world; that of a disillusioned misanthrope crushed by his own ideals; or that of a tough moralist who praises his own excellence, and judges the others. The only thing to get him back to the right path is genuine and fresh acknowledgement of his own sin adequate to bring him a view of hope. Adequate to impel him to go into the sinful world to be a sinner among sinners, convinced that there does not exist a power powerful enough to help.

Does the speech lack something? Yes it does lack the most important point, which I now want to stress. It is obvious that the fellowship of sinners could never be a tiding of hope and happiness if it had not first been turned upside down by one having the power to do it.

Nothing has to such an agree signified, and nothing has such a degree renewed, the unity of the world as the one savior who gave his own life not for a certain race, but the one world; not for a certain sector of the religious organizations, or worthy movement, but for mankind. The savior, in whose name everyone shall kneel-one world. In his name we can succeed. How far he will bring his wants to take over and complete it, we do not know. But we know the strength, and we know the truth which emancipates us to serve.

And at last we know the grace which not only forgives sinners their misdeeds, but also changes their imperfect efforts to the best, and gives them blessing and progress. A new life in Jesus Christ, step towards a restored world, a world in accordance with itself. A world living in opposition to the unity which it cannot escape; a world under one Master, and animated by one will.

To be a unity. Not an individual soul disappears and is wiped out and where individual face hides behind someone's back, but as a living fellowship inspired by my love to God and to my neighbor. The love of Jesus Christ.

Yours in Christ,

Arms talks start recess today

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S.-Soviet arms talks, apparently stalled over the so-called "Star Wars" issue, will recess today for a summer break.

Moscow reportedly refuses to consider U.S. proposals for deep cuts in existing offensive nuclear weapons unless Washington abandons its Strategic Defense Initiative Research into anti-missile weapons.

Paul Nitze, an arms control adviser to President Reagan, last week said the Soviets have used the Strategic Defense Initiative, also known as "Star Wars" to block progress at Geneva.

Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev this month threatened that Moscow will "reassess" the talks unless the "Star Wars" program is abandoned.

A meeting for all members of both delegations was arranged today at the Soviet delegation offices in order to close the latest round of talks. A third round of talks will begin in September, officials said.

Mom's Deeply Moving Story of Her 'Bubble Baby' & His Medical Miracle

For 3½ heartrending years, Wanda Styron watched helplessly as her infant son Jeremy grew up in a sterile, germfree room, suffering from a rare genetic disease which made his tiny body unable to fight off infections and sickness. Wanda couldn't even touch her boy with her bare hands. But then a medical miracle cured Jeremy, and he walked out of his sterile prison. Here, exclusively for ENQUIRER readers, Wanda recalls in her own words her years of torment — and the glorious moment when she could once more touch her son.

After Three Years of Heartbreak I Can Touch My Little Boy

By WANDA STYRON

If you have children, run to them right now and wrap your bare arms around them. Kiss them. Press their hands into yours for dear life.

For 3½ agonizing years, I couldn't do any of those things. I couldn't touch the soft warm skin of my baby boy. I couldn't put my lips to his cheeks, or even feel the touch of his tiny fist clasped around my finger.

My long, torturous nightmare began in 1977, when Jeremy was about 5 months old. He began to come down with colds, ear infections and coughs. We were taking him to the doctor every week.

Finally, specialists near our hometown of Greenwood, S.C., told us the awful truth: Jeremy's body was unable to fight off infections. Even a minor cold could develop into pneumonia and kill him.

They said there was little hope for a cure, and what time Jeremy had left would have to be spent in a closed, sterilized room.

The news hit me like a bombshell.

"My God!" I thought. "My little boy, cut off from the world! He's just a baby! He'll have to learn to walk, talk, feed himself and play with toys closed off in a sterilized room!"

The blackest day of my life came in April 1978 at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York. I held Jeremy in my bare hands for what I knew might be the last time. I tried to memorize the feel of his skin against mine, and savored the warm, invisible mist of his breath against my cheek.

He was just 10 months old. Tears rolled down my face, soaking the down-like hair on his little head.

Then Jeremy was put into his germfree room. That was it.

"Dear Lord," I prayed silently, "return my little boy to me someday. Please don't make him live the rest of his days here."

I could still be near Jeremy, along with the nurses and doctors. But we could only enter his room after rigorous protection measures. We first had to have a surgical scrub, washing our hands and arms as thoroughly as a surgeon does before an operation. Next we had to don surgical gowns, gloves, masks, hats and even shoe covers.

Jeremy was a boy in a bubble. He could be handled, but he could never, ever be touched with a bare hand — or kissed by my loving lips.

The days turned to months. Jeremy began to walk. Speech came slowly for him because, since we all wore masks, he couldn't see our lips moving. That slowed down his progress.

I took coloring books and crayons to his room. I sat for hours teaching him how to make the pictures pretty. Once, after I'd seen them take painful blood samples and skin tests, I couldn't keep the tears from running down my cheeks.

"Mama — what's that water running out of your eyes?" Jeremy asked me innocently. His words cut through my broken heart. Forcing a smile, I said, "Mama's not feeling well today. Mama's just crying a little."

Countless times, hearing Jeremy cry with the pain, I'd pray, "Please, God, give me the strength to help my little boy through."

"Let it be me, Lord!" I'd pray. "Let me take Jeremy's place. Let me go through all this. Please, God, let us change places!"

But then came a true miracle — the hand of God in the form of an incredible medical breakthrough. The doctors had been working on a new type of bone marrow transplant that could boost Jeremy's immune system. They decided to try it with Jeremy. In May 1981, they took bone marrow from me and put it into Jeremy. Then came the long months of waiting ... waiting for the doctors' verdict.

Finally, God's hand touched us again. Jeremy was cured! I'll never forget that day in October 1981, when we took Jeremy out of his "bubble." It was the happiest day of my life. My husband Jack and I were on each side of him, holding his hands. He walked out to a great cheer from the doctors and nurses.

I went to kiss him — and he recoiled. "No, no! You can't do that!" he said, shielding his face with his hands.

Gently, I told him those days were over. He flashed a huge smile, turned up his little face, and I kissed him for the first time in 3½ years.

It would be another 18 months before the breakthrough that saved Jeremy would be announced to the world by the Sloan-Kettering doctors. Up to 14,000 children with genetic blood disorders a year could be saved by the procedure.

Jeremy's hospital stay had cost $3.5 million — thank God the expenses were picked up by insurance and research grants. Today he leads a normal life. He attends kindergarten. He runs, climbs trees and plays like any child his age.

We're happier than we've ever been — and we have renewed faith in God thanks to our blue-eyed, blond-haired miracle boy!

"Yes."

"Were there any powder marks on him?"

"Yes," the witness replied.

Mosquitos may turn planned nudist paradise into problem

MIAMI, Florida (UPI) — Swarms of mosquitos could sting plans by members of the Sunny Palms Nudist Lodge who would like to build a new luxurious camp on a secluded 50-acre island just south of here.

"If the nudists are going out there, they might ought to think about putting their clothes on," says Marlon Nelms, who oversees Dade County's mosquito eradication program.

The tree-shrouded site which the nudists are considering is a mosquito haven and one of Nelms' greatest professional challenges, he says.

The nudists have been looking for a place to build a camp since the Du pont Chemical Co. purchased their camp near Florida City to build a paint-testing laboratory. When the camp closed, September 20, it was the end of an era. For 37 years, Sunny Palms Lodge had catered to nudists, mainly visitors vacationing from the frozen north.

How Rich Stars React to a Handout

To find out what would happen if a fan sent money to a star, The ENQUIRER mailed $20 checks to 26 celebrities along with a note from a "fan" saying she'd heard that the star was "broke and on hard times."

And we got some surprising results!

Eleven of the 26 stars returned the check, one kept it but didn't cash it, and two sent theirs along to charities. But 10 weeks later, 12 hadn't returned the money, cashed the check, or sent a response.

Loretta Swit sent a letter thanking the fan for her generosity, and explained that

Ted Knight sent back the check and wrote: "The Lord has been very good to me, and while I still work for a living, I'm very comfortable."

T.W.A. hijack proceedings

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A Lebanese public prosecutor today began judicial proceedings against the accused hijackers of Trans World Airlines Flight 847.

If tried and found guilty the hijackers could be sentenced to death, said Maurice Khawam, the Mount Lebanon Public Prosecutor in charge of the airport.

In letters to the Judicial Police and the authorities in charge of security at Beirut International Airport, Khawam today named one hijacker suspect and ordered an investigation into the identity and role of the accused's comrades.

Khawam said Greece has requested that charges of air piracy be brought against the hijackers.

U.S. OIL REFINERIES SHUT DOWN

WASHINGTON — An increase in gasoline imports may cost the U.S.A. oil refining industry 54,000 jobs by the end of next year and $4 billion in annual profits by 1990, an association of refiners says.

Heavy imports also may lead to the loss of more than 1,000,000 barrels a day of crude capacity utilization by the end of 1986, the Independent Refiners Coalition predicted here today.

The study made by Pace Co. Consultants and Engineers Inc., of Houston, Texas, concluded that the United States' low tariff schedule will encourage oil producing nations in the Middle East to increase their sales of gasoline, jet fuel, kerosene, and light heating oil.

"The increase of these imported products, subsidized by Middle East governments, will result in additional domestic refinery shut-downs and increase U.S. dependence on foreign sources", the refiners' study said. This dependency raises national security — as well as economic concerns.

AUSTERITY PROGRAM PAYS OFF IN TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO

The Trinidad and Tobago economy has begun to show some tentative signs of recovery after two years of government stringencies to arrest a worsening domestic performance in this oil-rich Caribbean state. While the Central Bank's latest statistics show a further decline in the country's foreign reserves, it cited several other areas which indicate that measures to conserve foreign exchange by curbing imports were beginning to pay off.

Perhaps the most impressive was in the international trade balance, which was turned around from a 550.3 million dollar deficit at the end of 1983, to a 610 million dollar surplus at the end of 1984 (One dollar 56 - 41 cents US). The figures for January this year also surplus of about 44 million dollars leading Central Bank analysts to predict that the country will finish, at least the first quarter of 1985 with a further surplus.

GIANT TUMOR SHOCKS DOCS

Doctors successfully removed a giant 110-pound tumor from a 60-year-old grandmother that weighed more than the patient herself!

"Before the operation she was 198 pounds. Afterward she was only 88 pounds," declared Dr. Rehana Bashir, the surgeon and gynecologist who operated. "We were all shocked."

The case unfolded when Chabiya Devi, the wife of a poor farmer in Allahabad, India, came to Dr. Bashir complaining about an ovarian cyst. The doctor wanted to remove it immediately, but Chabiya refused to have the operation.

"We are very poor and were collecting the money for the operation," Chabiya explained.

"It took us four years to get together the 800 rupees ($70) required for the operation."

By the time she finally returned to the doctor in January, she was unable to walk by herself.

"The tumor was so huge that her body was bent backward," Dr. Bashir said. "She was not able to walk straight, and two people were holding her up. I thought she was a hopeless case."

Dr. Bashir made an incision almost a foot long, from the patient's chest to hipbone, but the tumor was still too big to be removed.

Dr. Bashir lanced the tumor and drained 33 pounds of fluid — about 2½ buckets. It still took four doctors to remove the growth, which was not malignant.

The tumor was the size of two huge watermelons — and filled a wheelbarrow used to haul it away, said one of the men who helped dispose of it.

"I'm feeling very well now," Chabiya said. "Now I feel much lighter. I'm not doing much housework yet, but the younger people in the family are taking care of me. It's a great comfort. And each day I'm feeling much stronger."

ON THE MEND: A doctor who helped remove Chabiya Devi's tumor checks the 60-year-old granny's abdomen.

U.S. Presidents Have Called One Another Some Very Nasty Names

By STEVE COZ

Over the years U.S. Presidents have blasted each other with epithets ranging from "coward" to "cold-blooded" — and worse.

John Adams, for instance, called George Washington "too illiterate, unread, unlearned" to be Chief Executive.

VERBAL ATTACK on George Washington called him "illiterate, unread and unlearned."

Adams, in turn, was attacked by Thomas Jefferson, who called him "vain and irritable," "distrustful and obstinate."

Theodore Roosevelt described Benjamin Harrison as a "cold-blooded, narrow-minded, prejudiced, obstinate, timid old psalm-singing Indianapolis politician."

And Roosevelt called Woodrow Wilson "a selfish and cold-blooded politician."

Harry S Truman lashed out at Dwight D. Eisenhower, saying the war hero was "just a coward ... he hasn't got any backbone at all."

And turning his attention to Richard Nixon, Truman called him "a shifty-eyed g-damn liar," among more printable epithets. Truman said that Nixon didn't know "the difference between tell-

Valmy.

Q. How can I keep my eyeliner from smearing and fading during the day?

A. Set soft pencil eyeliner by using a tapering brush to go over the pencil line with a matching powdered eye shadow. "This combination sets the line, prevents smearing and flaking, and keeps the liner lasting a long time," said the beauty expert.

Q. What kind of makeup can make me look a few years younger?

A. Often women over 40 can virtually deduct 10 years from their appearance by updating their makeup to the latest styles.

"Today's colors are lively and fresh, from pale to vibrant. Pinks, mauves, corals and peaches are the color families for lips and cheeks and they coordinate with soft greens, blues, mauves and pinks for eyes," said

Valmy.

"Dots of color on the center of the cheeks can 'date' your looks. Instead, apply a cream blush high on the cheekbones, blending it upward almost to the hairline." Use only one or two shades of eye shadow and avoid contouring with dark colors. Instead of liquid eyeliner, use a soft pencil.

Q. How can I keep my blusher from fading as the day goes on?

A. "Apply a cream blush after you put on your foundation," said Valmy. "Dust your face with loose powder and go over the cream blusher with the same shade of powder blusher."

Q. Is there a way to stop makeup from rubbing off on my clothes?

A. Avoid wearing foundation on your neck. To prevent a color line between your face and neck, blend foundation very well at the jawline with a damp makeup sponge.

Q. How can I get my hair to look as good as it does when my hairdresser does it?

A. "If you can't handle a blow dryer or curling iron, ask your hairdresser to do something with your hair that you will be able to manage by yourself," said Valmy.

"If your hair is cut to follow the way it grows and moves, you'll be able to wear it in a becoming style by letting it dry naturally. A perm is another solution that will give you true 'wash 'n' wear' hair."
